

HumanServicesEDU.org Names the Concord University MSW One of the Best CSWE-Accredited Programs in the Nation for 2019-20

In a field that's all about advocacy and helping people be their best, HumanServicesEDU.org feels strongly that up-and-coming social workers deserve all the support they can get. As any social worker will tell you, the earlier you can reach someone with the help they need, the better their chances of success. It's easy to see why we knew it was our duty to step in and offer a little assistance to aspiring social workers at that critical stage when gearing up for professional practice and looking for the best MSW programs available.

When we got to the Concord University MSW, it was clear we had a winner. With the Department of Social Work & Sociology hosting the Annual Opioid Symposium where students can converse with thought leaders in the area of addiction, and with opportunities for experiential learning that focuses on the unique needs of people in rural West Virginia, the Concord University MSW program offers students something they just won't find anywhere else. This makes the Concord University MSW one of our favorite programs to recommend, and one that easily earns its place on our list of Top Picks for the Best CSWE-Accredited MSW Programs for 2019-20!
