

SOCIOLOGY—CRIMINOLOGY

Sociology is the study of human society and human social interaction. Our department explores a wide range of issues relevant to our lives — social inequality and social justice, crime and deviance, race and gender relations, dating and intimate relationships, and the impact of the internet on society and interpersonal relationships.

The Sociology - Criminology Emphasis program offers students seeking careers in criminology or criminal justice a broad liberal arts education that encourages them to think critically about crime and justice issues and prepares them for careers in the criminal justice systems or preparation for a graduate degree program.

POTENTIAL CAREERS:

Corrections
Crime Data Analysis
Cybersecurity
Law Enforcement
Legal Services
Probation & Parole

Program & Policy Analysis
Program Planning & Administration
Rehabilitation
Research
Security Specialist
Victim Advocacy

Have Questions? Want to learn more? Contact:

Ms. Lori Pace | lpace@concord.edu | 304-384-6054